Recycling is taking used materials and waste and then turning it into new, useful products. Recycling waste into new products reduces the amount of materials that would have been needed if the product had to be made all over again. For example, most paper is made from trees, but if old paper is recycled, fewer trees will be cut down. Recycling uses less energy, and helps with pollution control.

There are three important steps for recycling to be successful:

First, the items to be recycled must be collected. Many communities require residents to recycle and collect the materials using large bins or cans. The recyclables are picked up regularly, just like the other trash and waste products.

Second, the recyclables must be sorted into the different materials. The most common materials include paper, plastic, glass, and aluminum, which must be separated from each other.

Third, the recycled items must be processed at a recycling plant. Since there are different materials that need to be recycled, each has its own method of turning the old into the renewed.

- 17. According to the passage, if people recycle old paper, more trees are saved.
- 18. Recycling uses less energy and helps prevent pollution.
- 19. Paper, plastic and glass must be separated from each other except aluminum.
- 20. The same method can be used for different materials to turn the old into the renewed.
- 21. The passage mainly discusses _____.
