One of the most important parts of this method of language learning is the telling stories. Twice every day, at the end of the morning and afternoon sessions, the teacher read us a boring story about the Familie Gartner. We were giving the text: German on the left-hand side, the translation on the right-hand side. Then she told us to lie back and close your eyes while she read the text again, and the music played in the background. Afterwards, we could remember most of the details – and the vocabulary.
